What happens when Emma, who just wants to be done right, meets Finn, who doesn't know what he's doing? Emma Leroux has had it with men who have no clue how to satisfy her in the bedroom. As a grown-ass woman, she knows what she wants. What is wrong with men, that she can't seem to get it as good as she gives? After another lousy encounter, she heads to the bar to let off some steam, only to get approached by another man who doesn't know what he's doing. Unfortunately for him, Finn Declan is in the direct line of fire when Emma finally goes off. Finn may have made his billions as a social media influencer, but Emma could be right about this one. He doesn't know what he's doing in bed and women have just been using him because of his fame. So he proposes Emma teach him how to finally satisfy a woman. But as she teaches Finn that sex is better when done right, their one-night lesson soon turns into something more than either of them expected. Tropes: One-night stand, billionaire/celebrity, she teaches him, short and spicy.
