More information on references and reference examples are in Chapters and of the Publication Manual as well as the Concise Guide to APA An annotated bibliography is an organized list of sources (like a reference list). Section numbers indicate where to find the examples in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (7th ed.). In M. J. Grawitch & D. W. Ballard (Eds.), The psychologically healthy workplace: Building a win-win environment This guide contains examples of common types of APA Style references. Depending on the assignment, an annotated bibliography might have different purposes According to the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (, p.) Annotated Bibliographies: Format and order references in an annotated bibliography in alphabetical order, the same as you would order entries in a reference list (see Sections) It differs from a straightforward bibliography in that each reference is followed by a paragraph length annotation, usually – words in length. As you're writing, you can quickly generate parenthetical citations or footnotes /endnotes to paste into your document without typing names or dates by hand Sample Reference List Bibliography References Barber, L. K., Grawitch, M. J., & Maloney, P. W. (). Format your bibliography using APA, MLA, Chicago Turabian, Harvard, or any of the, + other CSL styles Copy Citation Note.
