Life is about struggles. What if one doesn't face any? Do you think you can have a life without challenges? Not really. Many people in the world go through things that affect them in several ways and some of these struggles are an indirect cause of the choices they made in life. Making decisions is hard and when it comes to making the wrong choices, it never bodes out well. However, one can always learn from their mistakes. That's what my life is all about. From a very young age, I made choices of my life. One would say they were the wrong choices, but I believe it brought me to where I am today. From getting into trouble at home with the parents and grandmother, to getting into trouble out in the streets, I learned much more about life than most people do at my age. I walked the darkest streets of my neighborhoods, and suffered through the darkest days of my life locked up in prison. And when I finally went out, I breathed a sense of freedom that I had never felt before. This book is about all those real-life struggles that I faced in my life, and while it may not be perfect, I believe there is a lot to learn. Here, I am going to describe all my struggles and how it led me to success.
