Description

The Myfedloan website assists in accessing and managing federal student loan accounts previously serviced by FedLoan Servicing. Users can utilize the platform to view loan details, make payments, apply for forgiveness programs, and explore various repayment plans. First-time users are required to register with personal information in order to create a log in. The website also offers information on payment options, such as income-based repayment and options for deferment or forbearance in case of financial hardship. It's important to note that most FedLoan accounts have been transferred to other loan servicers, necessitating users to establish accounts with the new servicers. For further information, please visit Myfedloan.
