We all want to keep our cool! Positive parenting gives words to what parents do every day—challenges included—and keeps the big picture in mind. The positive parenting idea makes a distinction between the strict and the permissive parenting approach to raising children, and promotes nonviolent parenting by respecting the child's rights and taking positive action in the development of his potentials, in the child's best interest.

NEW APPROACH TO PARENTING – POSITIVE Learn how to use positive parenting to guide, nurture and encourage your child and build your confidence as a parent. This booklet provides tips, examples and useful contacts for coping with children's behaviour in different situations.

Positive parenting gives words to what parents do every day—challenges included—and keeps the big picture in mind. Here are nine key elements that power a positive approach to parenting. Imagine your child's point of view, especially during tough moments. Positive parenting sets children up for success. Research shows that Our most recent book, The Pillars of Successful Parenting will offer you new ways of understanding the actions and interactions between you and the kids who are driving you nuts. Set your kids on a positive path, teach them self-control, reduce the likelihood of troublesome behaviors, and build a warm, caring parent-child relationship. Here are nine key elements that power a positive.

Positive parenting is a continual relationship that includes caring, teaching, leading, communicating, and providing for the needs of a child consistently and unconditionally. This practical guide provides useful information on positive parenting and positive discipline and looks at why physical punishment is never a good idea for children of any age.

Parents, communities and governments around the world are recognizing children's rights to protection from physical punishment and to discipline that respects their dignity.

The Power of Positive Parenting information sheet (PDF) Research reveals the power of positive parenting. Catch kids showing good behavior and offer specific praise. Give children meaningful jobs at home and positive recognition afterward. Don't be overly critical; parenting.
