One man swears he once saw Silas in a sort of fit, standing with his limbs stiff and his eyes “set like a dead man’s.” Mr. Macey, the parish clerk, suggests that such episodes are caused by Silas’s soul leaving his body to commune with the devil The Squire leadsSilas’s reclusiveness has given rise to a number of myths and rumors among the townspeople. Analysis. The Squire is a slovenly man, but one who has always been aware of his own superiority, never having interacted with men of a higher rank, and living among the villagers of Raveloe for his whole life. Godfrey rises early the next morning, and, after eating breakfast, waits for the Squire’s appearance in the parlor.
