A thrilling new suspense novel with shades of The Stand and One Second After from the New York Times bestselling author of the Jonathan Grave series, that fans of Ben Coes and Brad Taylor wont want to miss! In the wake of a global conflict that has devastated America, those who survived live in a world without technology or governance. They look to one womansingle mother and former West Virginia Congressperson Victoria Emerson to lead and protect those determined to rebuild all they have lostEngrossingFans of doomsday military thrillers will delight in the resilience of Gilstraps family of preppers and their quest for survival on their terms.Publishers Weekly They call it Hell Daya world war that lasted less than twenty-four hours. Nations unleashed weapons that destroyed more than a centurys worth of technology. Electrical grids cannot generate power. Communications and computers cannot run. And the remnants of the U. S. government cannot be depended upon. Those who survived must live as their ancestors did, off a land ruled by the whims of nature. One-time congressional representative Victoria Emerson has become the new leader of the small town of Ortho, West Virginia. She has been struggling to provide food and shelter for the towns inhabitants, while coping with desperate refugees. An autumn mornings calm is shattered when her teenage son sounds the alarm with the cryBlue Firethe code phrase for imminent danger. A band of National Guardsmen intends to take Ortho and its resources for themselves. They have enough soldiers and firepower to eliminate anyone who dares to stop them. But Victoria swore an oath to defend and protect her people, and she isnt about to surrender. Its time to tap into the traditional American values of courage, ingenuity, and determination and fight fire with fire.
