Amelia Taylor gave everything to her career. At forty-one, it's too late for love, for laughter, for children. At least, that's what she thinks. Amelia finds herself in the midst of chaos. Throughout the previous two decades, everyone from her family to her dearest friends has put complete trust in her. If anyone can do it, Amelia can. She's the perfect godmother (or, more like stand-in mother) to her niece and nephew; she's the perfect employee for Martha's Vineyard's business bureau; and she'll do anything for her sisters. But the second she loosens up and gives in to the allure of a one-night stand -- everything changes her life forever. And as though the cosmos themselves have a different story up their sleeves, her niece, Mandy, gets some surprising news of her own. But blessings come in strange packages. Amelia and the other Sisters of Edgartown know this better than most. As they grapple with divorce, new loves, constant changes, deaths, and new lives -- they know they'll continually have one another. It's a new season in their lives, and they'll embrace it like they've done everything else: with generosity, love, plenty of laughter, and hope. This is book three of the Sisters of Edgartown Series: a new women's fiction series that contains a heartwarming journey of friendship, loss, and love, and one that will make you fall in love with the people of Edgartown and want the next book. For fans of Pamela Kelley, Caroline Brown, and Debbie Macomber. tags:
