Stressing occupational performance in evaluations, interventions, and documentation is an important The OTIPM is a professional reasoning model that occupational therapists can use to ensure that they adopt an occupation-centered (OC) perspective to guide their reasoning as they plan and implement occupation-based (OB) and occupation-focused (OF) services (Fisher,) PMIDDOI: Abstract. Presented by Professor Anne G. Fisher, ScD, OT, FAOTA A basic premise of the OTIPM is that the effective use of occupation as a means (intervention) and as end (immediate outcome) depends on a concurrent commitment to true top-down and client-centered practice. Objective: The purpose of this qualitative descriptive study was to describe how long-term improvement work based on the Occupational Therapy Intervention Process Model (OTIPM) evolved in an occupational therapy unit Article PDF can be printed USD Add to cart PDF download + Online accessOnline Checkout Une évaluation ou un moyen The Occupational Therapy Intervention Process Model is a model that guides therapists to use top-down, client-centered, and occupational-based approaches to assessment and Title: OTIPM English Handout Created Date/12/PM Occupational Therapy Intervention Process Model: A Model for Planning and Implementing Top-down, Client-centered, and Occupation-based Interventions • use the Occupational Therapy Intervention Process Model (OTIPM) to guide the implementation of authentic occupational therapy services; implement observation OTIPM: A model for implementing top-down, client-centered, and occupation-based assessment, intervention, and documentation.
