

Translations: Choosing the Right Smart Glass for Any Project/6/en

---

The first thing to consider when thinking about adopting this revolutionizing glass technology is to look for a reliable product to use. Do you need smart glass or smart film? There is a difference between the two products. It is important that people who want to invest in switchable technology know the differences. This way they can be confident that they have the appropriate and best value solution for their application. The basic difference is that smart film is retrofit, customized, and can be installed in minutes.