The elven realm cast her out . . . and now they expect her to save them. The nerve, right? Hally built a life in exile among humans after her magic caused a tragic accident in the elven realm. A century later, Hally's past walks into her tattoo shop. Nolan, her charismatic-estranged-fated-friend, upends her exile as he hunts a mysterious mage. Little is known about the mage except she's powerful, ruthless and her curse is decimating the elves. Nolan needs Hally's help in more ways than they realize. But why should Hally risk the life she's built in Seattle to save the elves that cast her out? Her unorthodox magic might hold the key to stopping the mage's curse. Hally must choose: protect her secrets or prevent a catastrophe in both realms. One thing is clear-her exile is about to get a lot more complicated.
